HA 1894

This circa 1910 two-story frame house is located on the west side of Main Street in Cardiff, Maryland. Set on a raised, coursed slate foundation, the house is two bays wide by two bays deep with a one story porch on the eastern, main facade and the southern side. The house was built for Robert L. Roberts, on land that was given to him by his father Richard Roberts. Richard Roberts, co-founder of Roberts and Wilhelm, which evolved to Richard Roberts and Son, operated the metal foundry and machine shop on the land below and adjoining this Main Street lot. Robert L. Roberts succeeded his father as the owner and operator of the foundry. As owners of the metal foundry in Cardiff, the Roberts were a prominent family in town. The metal foundry had a distinct and important place in the inter-workings of the town's slate industry, supplying invaluable components to the slate quarry industry, building cranes and operating machinery for the quarries.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

This two-story frame house is located on the west side of Main Street in Cardiff, Maryland. Set on a raised, coursed slate foundation, the house is two bays wide by two bays deep with a one story porch on the eastern, main facade and the southern side. Running north to south, the gable roof parallels Main Street. A centrally located chimney rises from the roof of shingled slate. A two-story three-sided bay window is capped by a projecting pedimented gable on the north bay of the main facade. The southern remaining bay is articulated by the main entrance and an aligned window on the second story. A one-story bay window projects from the southern facade onto the porch, with a door in the eastern-most panel.

The entrance door has a transom with two two-panelled sidelights. The glass within the transom and sidelights are alternating panes of red and cobalt. (Several examples of this simple use of stained glass exist in other homes around Cardiff.) Windows have a 1/1 sash, with a wide window in the forward lower story bay window and a double window in the forward second story bay window. The opening onto the porch is on the southeast corner and runs diagonally to the street. Square columns rest on rusticated block pillars and a simple balustrade comprise this two-sided porch. The house is sided with painted wood weatherboard, light blue in color.

The rear of the building has a basement and first-story projection with a shed roof. The first story of this area contained a small kitchen and covered porch. At present, that area is now an expanded kitchen. A window remains from the dining room into the present-day kitchen, where the porch had been. A gable-roofed utility addition with a east-west running ridge extends the basement and first-story farther westward.

Some remnant Victorian decoration in the form of a cut-out gable finish in the projecting pedimented gable and three decorative lightning rods. The interior is modestly decorated with detail and woodwork. A decorated handrail and newel post provide a grand accessory to the living room upon entrance. Wide openings into the dining area from the living room and sitting room are accented with squared columns and dark, heavy wood molding.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

This circa 1910<sup>1</sup> house was built for Robert L. Roberts, on land that was given to him by his father Richard Roberts. Richard Roberts, co-founder of Roberts and Wilhelm, which evolved to Richard Roberts and Son, operated the metal foundry and machine shop on the land below and adjoining this Main Street lot. Robert L. Roberts succeeded his father as the owner and operator of the foundry.

The Roberts were a well-to-do Welsh family, owning several of the building lots in the vicinity of this house. Relative to many of the houses in Cardiff, this was opulent indeed. Located very near the Mason-Dixon line and the merchant houses of Delta, this house indicates the wealth of the Roberts family. According to Mrs. Darcy Lloyd, the owner of this site for almost fifty years and who was born across the street, "the Roberts owned the town" at one time.

As owners of the metal foundry in Cardiff (first Roberts and Wilhelm, then R. Roberts and Son, and lastly trading under Richard Roberts and Robert Roberts), the Roberts were a prominent family in town. Identified on and listed among the commercial concerns of the 1888 Delta map, the early Roberts and Wilhelm metal foundry had a distinct and important place in the inter-workings of the town's slate industry. The metal foundry supplied invaluable components to the slate quarry industry, building cranes and operating machinery for the quarries. (The original site as identified on the Delta 1888 map is south of the site established in 1890.) The foundry maintained its significance throughout the operating years of the various slate quarries and the Maryland Green Marble quarry. Now in its fifth generation of family ownership under Gary Thompson, R. Roberts and Son continues to operate in metal fabrication.

An interesting aside: Robert Roberts, son of Richard Roberts, was responsible for the renaming of South Delta to Cardiff in 1900.<sup>2</sup>
